ORIGINAL COMPLAINT FOR PATENT INFRINGEMENT

Plaintiffs, Uniloc USA, Inc. ("Uniloc USA") and Uniloc Luxembourg, S.A. ("Uniloc Luxembourg") (collectively, "Uniloc"), as and for their complaint against defendant, Workday, Inc. ("Workday"), allege as follows:

THE PARTIES

1.   Uniloc USA is a Texas corporation having a principal place of business at Legacy Town Center I, Suite 380, 7160 Dallas Parkway, Plano Texas 75024. Uniloc USA also maintains a place of business at 102 N. College, Suite 603, Tyler, Texas 75702.

2.   Uniloc Luxembourg is a Luxembourg public limited liability company having a principal place of business at 15, Rue Edward Steichen, 4th Floor, L-2540, Luxembourg (R.C.S. Luxembourg B159161).

3.   Uniloc Luxembourg owns a number of patents in the field of application management in computer networks.

4.   Upon information and belief, Workday is a Delaware corporation having a principal place of business in Pleasanton, California and a regular and established place of business at 3001 Dallas Parkway Suite 600, Frisco, Texas 75034. Upon information and belief, Workday offers its products and services, including those accused herein of infringement, to customers and/or potential customers located in Texas and in the judicial Eastern District of Texas. Workday may be served with process through its registered agent in Texas: CT Corporation System, 1999 Bryan Street, Suite 900, Dallas, Texas 75201.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5.   Uniloc brings this action for patent infringement under the patent laws of the United States, 35 U.S.C. § 271 et seq. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1338(a), and 1367.

6.   Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(c) and 1400(b). Upon information and belief, Workday is deemed to reside in this judicial district, has committed acts of infringement in this judicial district, and/or has purposely transacted business involving the accused products in Texas and this judicial district.

7.   Workday is subject to this Court's jurisdiction pursuant to due process and/or the Texas Long Arm Statute due at least to its substantial presence and business in this State and judicial district, including: (A) at least part of its past infringing activities, (B) regularly doing and/or soliciting business in Frisco, Texas, and/or (C) engaging in persistent conduct and/or deriving substantial revenue from goods and services provided to customers in Texas.

COUNT I
(INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 6,324,578)

8.   Uniloc incorporates paragraphs 1-7 above by reference.

9.   Uniloc Luxembourg is the owner, by assignment, of U.S. Patent No. 6,324,578 ("the '578 Patent"), entitled METHODS, SYSTEMS AND COMPUTER PROGRAM PRODUCTS FOR MANAGEMENT OF CONFIGURABLE APPLICATION PROGRAMS ON A NETWORK that issued on November 27, 2001. A true and correct copy of the '578 Patent is attached as Exhibit A hereto.

10.   Uniloc USA is the exclusive licensee of the '578 Patent with ownership of all substantial rights therein, including the right to grant sublicenses, to exclude others, and to enforce, sue, and recover past damages for the infringement thereof.

During the registration process, You agree that any information provided shall be current, complete and accurate as prompted by the applicable registration form. You agree that any registration information You give to Workday will always be accurate, correct and up to date. You agree and understand that You are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of passwords associated with any account You use to access any portion of the Website. Accordingly, You agree that You will be solely responsible to Workday for all activities that occur under Your account. You agree to notify Workday immediately of any unauthorized use of Your account or any other breach of security. You may be allowed to choose an alias and a representative image during the registration process. You may not use an alias or image that is in use by someone else, impersonates another person, violates the intellectual property rights of any third party, is deemed vulgar or otherwise offensive or inappropriate by Workday in its sole discretion. The information You provide to Workday during the registration process will be governed by the terms of Workday's current privacy policy. Workday Privacy Policy

20.   The following image shows that administrators using the Workday application can take numerous available administrative actions:
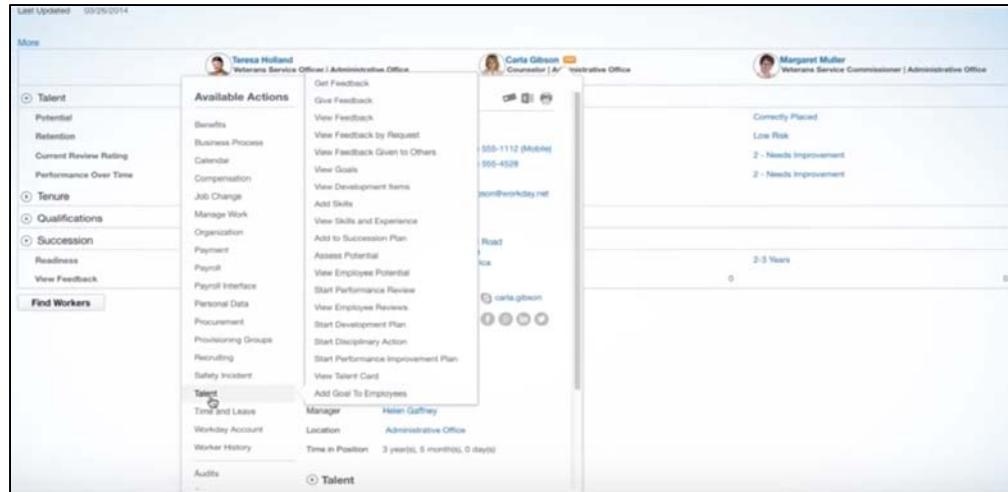

21.   The following image shows an Overview of the Workday Architecture:
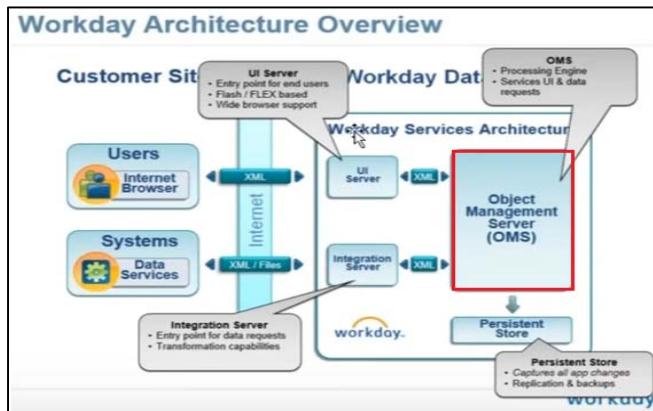

22.   Workday has directly infringed, and continues to directly infringe, one or more claims of the '578 Patent in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States, including at least claims 1, 9-10, 13, 15, 17, 32, 38, 41-42, 44 and 46 of the '578 Patent, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, by or through making, using, offering for sale, and/or selling its software distribution and management system during the pendency of the '578 Patent, which software and associated architecture, inter alia, allows for installing an application program having a plurality of configurable preferences and authorized users on a server coupled to a network, distributing an application launcher program to a client, obtaining a user set of the configurable preferences, obtaining an administrator set of configurable preferences and executing the application program using the user and administrator sets of configurable preferences responsive to a request from a user.

23.   In addition, should the Workday software distribution and management system be found to not literally infringe the asserted claims of the '578 Patent, the product would nevertheless infringe the asserted claims of the '578 Patent. More specifically, the platform performs substantially the same function (obtaining user and administrator sets of configurable preferences), in substantially the same way (via a user and administrator), to yield substantially the same result (executing an application program using the configurable preferences in response to a request from a user on a network). Workday would thus be liable for direct infringement under the doctrine of equivalents.

24.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 1, 9-10, 13, 15, 17, 32, 38, 41-42, 44 and 46 of the '578 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, actively inducing the using, offering for sale, and/or selling of the Workday software distribution and management system. Workday's customers who use the platform in accordance with Workday's instructions directly infringe one or more of the foregoing claims of the '578 Patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271. As set forth, inter alia, above, Workday directly and/or indirectly intentionally instructs its customers to infringe through training videos, demonstrations, brochures, and installation and/or user guides for the accused platform, such as those located at the following:

- www.workday.com

- www.workday.com/en-us/legal/site-terms.html

Workday is thereby liable for infringement of the '578 Patent under 35 U.S.C. § 271(b).

25.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 1, 9-10, 13, 15, 17, 32, 38, 41-42, 44 and 46 of the '578 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, contributing to the direct infringement by others including, without limitation, customers using the Workday software distribution and management system, by making, offering to sell, and/or selling, a component of a patented machine, manufacture or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patented process, constituting a material part of the invention, knowing the same to be especially made or especially adapted for use in infringing the '578 Patent and not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

26.   For example, the platform software comprises a component of a patented machine, manufacture, or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patent process. Furthermore, the software is a material part of the claimed inventions and, upon information and belief, is not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use. Workday is, therefore, liable for infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271(c).

27.   Workday will have been on notice of the '578 Patent since, at the latest, the service of this complaint. By the time of trial, Workday will have known and intended (since receiving such notice) that its continued actions would actively induce, and contribute to, the infringement of one or more of claims 1, 9-10, 13, 15, 17, 32, 38, 41, 42, 44 and 46 of the '578 Patent.

28.   Workday may have infringed the '578 Patent through other software utilizing the same or reasonably similar functionality, including other versions of the Workday software distribution and management system. Uniloc reserves the right to discover and pursue all such additional infringing software.

29.   Uniloc has been damaged, reparably and irreparably, by Workday's infringement of the '578 Patent and such damage will continue unless and until Workday is enjoined.

COUNT II
(INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 7,069,293)

30.   Uniloc incorporates paragraphs 1-7 above by reference.

31.   Uniloc Luxembourg is the owner, by assignment, of U.S. Patent No. 7,069,293 ("the '293 Patent"), entitled METHODS, SYSTEMS AND COMPUTER PROGRAM PRODUCTS FOR DISTRIBUTION OF APPLICATION PROGRAMS TO A TARGET STATION ON A NETWORK that issued on June 27, 2006. A true and correct copy of the '293 Patent is attached as Exhibit B hereto.

32.   Uniloc USA is the exclusive licensee of the '293 Patent with ownership of all substantial rights therein, including the right to grant sublicenses, to exclude others, and to enforce, sue, and recover past damages for the infringement thereof.

33.   Workday has directly infringed, and continues to directly infringe, one or more claims of the '293 Patent in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States, including at least claims 1, 12 and 17, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, by or through making, using, offering for sale, and/or selling its software distribution and management system during the pendency of the '293 Patent, which software and associated architecture, inter alia, allow for providing an application program for distribution to a network server, specifying source and target directories for the program to be distributed, preparing a file packet associated with the program including a segment configured to initiate registration operations for the application program at a target on-demand server, and distributing the file packet to the target on-demand server to make the program available for use by a client user.

34.   In addition, should the Workday software distribution and management system be found to not literally infringe the asserted claims of the '293 Patent, the product would nevertheless infringe the asserted claims of the '293 Patent. More specifically, the accused platform performs substantially the same function (distributing an application program to a target on-demand server on a network), in substantially the same way (via initiation of registration operations for the application program at the target on-demand server), to yield substantially the same result (making the application program available for use by a user at a client). Workday would thus be liable for direct infringement under the doctrine of equivalents.

35.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 1, 12 and 17 of the '293 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, actively inducing the using, offering for sale, and/or selling the Workday software distribution and management system. Workday's customers who use the platform in accordance with Workday's instructions directly infringe one or more of the foregoing claims of the '293 Patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271. As set forth, inter alia, above, Workday directly and/or indirectly intentionally instructs its customers to infringe through training videos, demonstrations, brochures, and installation and/or user guides for the accused platform, such as those located at the following:

- www.workday.com

- www.workday.com/en-us/legal/site-terms.html

- www.youtube.com/watch?v=c4gVqCGZjFo

- www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZzwXayY7JM

Workday is thereby liable for infringement of the '293 Patent under 35 U.S.C. § 271(b).

36.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 1, 12 and 17 of the '293 Patent in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, contributing to the direct infringement by others including, without limitation, customers using the Workday software distribution and management system, by making, offering to sell, and/or selling, a component of a patented machine, manufacture or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patented process, constituting a material part of the invention, knowing the same to be especially made or especially adapted for use in infringing the '293 Patent and not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

37.   For example, the platform software comprises a component of a patented machine, manufacture, or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patent process. Furthermore, the software distribution and management system is a material part of the claimed inventions and, upon information and belief, is not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use. Workday is, therefore, liable for infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271(c).

38.   Workday will have been on notice of the '293 Patent since, at the latest, the service of this complaint. By the time of trial, Workday will have known and intended (since receiving such notice) that its continued actions would actively induce, and contribute to, the infringement of one or more of claims 1, 12 and 17 of the '293 Patent.

39.   Workday may have infringed the '293 Patent through other software utilizing the same or reasonably similar functionality, including other versions of the Workday software distribution and management system. Uniloc reserves the right to discover and pursue all such additional infringing software.

40.   Uniloc has been damaged, reparably and irreparably, by Workday's infringement of the '293 Patent and such damage will continue unless and until Workday is enjoined.

COUNT III
(INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 6,510,466)

41.   Uniloc incorporates paragraphs 1-7 above by reference.

42.   Uniloc Luxembourg is the owner, by assignment, of U.S. Patent No. 6,510,466 ("the '466 Patent"), entitled METHODS, SYSTEMS AND COMPUTER PROGRAM PRODUCTS FOR CENTRALIZED MANAGEMENT OF APPLICATION PROGRAMS ON A NETWORK that issued on January 21, 2003. A true and correct copy of the '466 Patent is attached as Exhibit C hereto.

43.   Uniloc USA is the exclusive licensee of the '466 Patent with ownership of all substantial rights therein, including the right to grant sublicenses, to exclude others, and to enforce, sue, and recover past damages for the infringement thereof.

44.   Workday has directly infringed, and continues to directly infringe one or more claims of the '466 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States, including at least claims 16-20, 30-33 and 35-36, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, by or through making, using, offering for sale, and/or selling its software distribution and management system during the pendency of the '466 Patent, which software and associated architecture, inter alia, allows for installing application programs on a server, receiving a login request, establishing a user desktop interface, receiving a selection of one of the programs displayed in the user desktop interface and providing an instance of the selected program for execution.

45.   In addition, should the Workday software distribution and management system be found to not literally infringe the asserted claims of the '466 Patent, the product would nevertheless infringe the asserted claims of the '466 Patent. More specifically, the accused platform performs substantially the same function (selection of an application program), in substantially the same way (via an established user desktop interface), to yield substantially the same result (providing the program for execution). Workday would thus be liable for direct infringement under the doctrine of equivalents.

46.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 16-20, 30-33 and 35-36 of the '466 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, actively inducing the using, offering for sale, and/or selling the Workday software distribution and management system. Workday's customers who use the accused platform in accordance with Workday's instructions directly infringe one or more of the foregoing claims of the '466 Patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271. As set forth, inter alia, above, Workday directly and/or indirectly intentionally instructs its customers to infringe through training videos, demonstrations, brochures, and installation and/or user guides for the accused platform, such as those located at the following:

- www.workday.com

47.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 16-20, 30-33 and 35-36 of the '466 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, contributing to the direct infringement by others including, without limitation, customers using the Workday software distribution and management system, by making, offering to sell, and/or selling, a component of a patented machine, manufacture or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patented process, constituting a material part of the invention, knowing the same to be especially made or especially adapted for use in infringing the '466 Patent and not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

48.   For example, the platform software comprises a component of a patented machine, manufacture, or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patent process. Furthermore, the software is a material part of the claimed inventions and, upon information and belief, is not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use. Workday is, therefore, liable for infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271(c).

49.   Workday will have been on notice of the '466 Patent since, at the latest, the service of this complaint. By the time of trial, Workday will have known and intended (since receiving such notice) that its continued actions would actively induce, and contribute to, the infringement of one or more of claims 16-20, 30-33 and 35-36 of the '466 Patent.

50.   Workday may have infringed the '466 Patent through other software utilizing the same or reasonably similar functionality, including other versions of the Workday software distribution and management system. Uniloc reserves the right to discover and pursue all such additional infringing software.

51.   Uniloc has been damaged, reparably and irreparably, by Workday's infringement of the '466 Patent and such damage will continue unless and until Workday is enjoined.

COUNT IV
(INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 6,728,766)

52.   Uniloc incorporates paragraphs 1-7 above by reference.

53.   Uniloc Luxembourg is the owner, by assignment, of U.S. Patent No. 6,728,766 ("the '766 Patent"), entitled METHODS, SYSTEMS AND COMPUTER PROGRAM PRODUCTS FOR LICENSE USE MANAGEMENT ON A NETWORK that issued on April 27, 2004. A true and correct copy of the '766 Patent is attached as Exhibit D hereto.

54.   Uniloc USA is the exclusive licensee of the '766 Patent with ownership of all substantial rights therein, including the right to grant sublicenses, to exclude others, and to enforce, sue, and recover past damages for the infringement thereof.

55.   Workday has directly infringed, and continues to directly infringe, one or more claims of the '766 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States, including at least claims 7, 8, 11, 13-14, and 17, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, by or through making, using, offering for sale, and/or selling its software distribution and management system during the pendency of the '766 Patent, which software and associated architecture, inter alia, allow for maintaining user policy based license management information for application programs at a server, receiving a request for a license at the server, determining license availability based on the policy information, and providing an indication of availability or unavailability.

56.   In addition, should the Workday software distribution and management system be found to not literally infringe the asserted claims of the '766 Patent, the product would nevertheless infringe the asserted claims of the '766 Patent.   More specifically, the accused platform performs substantially the same function (managing licenses for authorized computer games/software based on user policy information), in substantially the same way (via a client/server environment), to yield substantially the same result (providing authorized games/software to a client).   Workday would thus be liable for direct infringement under the doctrine of equivalents.

57.   Workday has indirectly infringed, and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 7, 8, 11, 13-14, and 17 of the '766 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, actively inducing the using, offering for sale, and/or selling the Workday software distribution and management system.   Workday's customers who use the platform in accordance with Workday's instructions directly infringe one or more of the foregoing claims of the '766 Patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271.   As set forth, inter alia, above, Workday directly and/or indirectly intentionally instructs its customers to infringe through training videos, demonstrations, brochures, and installation and/or user guides for the accused platform, such as those located at the following:

- www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZzwXayY7JM

Workday is thereby liable for infringement of the '766 Patent under 35 U.S.C. § 271(b).

58.   Workday has indirectly infringed and continues to indirectly infringe, at least claims 7, 8, 11, 13-14 and 17, of the '766 Patent, in this judicial district and elsewhere in the United States by, among other things, contributing to the direct infringement by others including, without limitation, customers using the Workday software distribution and management system, by making, offering to sell, and/or selling, a component of a patented machine, manufacture or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patented process, constituting a material part of the invention, knowing the same to be especially made or especially adapted for use in infringing the '766 Patent and not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

59.   For example, the platform software comprises a component of a patented machine, manufacture, or combination, or an apparatus for use in practicing a patent process. Furthermore, the software is a material part of the claimed inventions and upon information and belief is not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use. Workday is, therefore, liable for infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271(c).

60.   Workday will have been on notice of the '766 Patent since, at the latest, the service of this complaint upon Workday. By the time of trial, Workday will have known and intended (since receiving such notice) that its continued actions would actively induce, and contribute to, the infringement of one or more of claims 7, 8, 11, 13-14, and 17 of the '766 Patent.

61.   Workday may have infringed the '766 Patent through other software utilizing the same or reasonably similar functionality, including other versions of the Workday software distribution and management system. Uniloc reserves the right to discover and pursue all such additional infringing software.

62.   Uniloc has been damaged, reparably and irreparably, by Workday's infringement of the '766 Patent and such damage will continue unless and until Workday is enjoined.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Uniloc requests that the Court enter judgment against Workday as follows:

(A)   declaring that Workday has infringed the '578 Patent, the '293 Patent, the '466 Patent, and the '766 Patent;

(B)   awarding Uniloc its damages suffered as a result of Workday's infringement of the '578 Patent, the '293 Patent, the '466 Patent, and the '766 Patent;

(C)   enjoining Workday, its officers, directors, agents, servants, affiliates, employees, divisions, branches, subsidiaries and parents, and all others acting in concert or privity with it from infringing the '578 Patent, the '293 Patent, the '466 Patent, and the '766 Patent;

(D)   awarding Uniloc its costs, attorneys' fees, expenses and interest; and

(E)   granting Uniloc such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Uniloc hereby demands trial by jury on all issues so triable pursuant to FED. R. CIV. P. 38.

Date: April 4, 2017.   Respectfully submitted,
